

SAM HAD A BIG TIME

Mr. Mulville Says the St. Louis Convention Was a Corker

AND HE'S GLAD HE WENT.

The Delegate From Montana Gives a Good Running Summary of What Was Done—The Third Party Is Strictly in It.

BUTTE, March 5.—Samuel Mulville of this city and A. C. Coates of Helena, delegates to the third party conference at St. Louis, returned today. They have been talking about the convention in enthusiastic terms all day and have been surrounded by knots of attentive listeners. "If you think," said Mr. Mulville, "that all the brains and intelligence of politics are concentrated in the two great parties, you are away off your base. There was a higher average of intelligence in that convention than in any other that was ever held. There was an entire absence of the ward politician element which is such a degrading feature in most political conventions. Jerry Simpson is one of the most able men I ever met. He is apt, quick on his feet, eloquent and earnest, and he had great influence with the delegates. Polk of North Carolina is another able speaker, gentlemanly and fine in appearance, full of argument and thoroughly posted on every question. Then there was T. V. Powderly, who did not speak often, but when he did speak you could hear a pin fall. He was very impressive, and although he did not speak loud, you could hear him in every corner of the spacious hall. One of the best things in the convention was the paper read by Mrs. Todd of Michigan, reciting John Sherman's history in connection with the finances of the country. It was a real gem. I never heard a more able paper on any subject. Then there was a lady from Kansas who also delivered an exceedingly able address. A 12-year-old girl from Nebraska gave a speech that was a feature. I supposed she had learned it from some pamphlet, but such was not the case. In the midst of her address some one interrupted her with a question and she answered it quickly and decidedly, and then proceeded in a manner that showed her speech was impromptu.

"It was a grand convention. There were delegates present from 38 states, representing sections from all over the nation. An interesting feature was the presence of 200 old soldiers. One hundred were from the South and 100 from the West, and they were given seats together in the front of the hall. They shook hands together, sang their war songs, together and fraternized in the best possible manner. There will be no bloody shirt business in the third party. Yes, sir! The third party is in the field to stay, and all the boodle on earth can't stop it. I may not carry the election next fall, but it will be strictly in it. There were more than 600 delegates, and at the nominating convention on July 4 next there will be 1,750 delegates.

"The only storm was on the question of a prohibition plank and that was defeated. Women's suffrage was also left alone. We don't want too many frons in the fire. You ought to have heard the enthusiasm at the songs of Mrs. Mitchell of Chicago, which were given whenever there was an intermission. She sang 'Good-bye, Old Parties, Good-bye,' and it brought down the house.

"There will be a third party in the field next fall and there will be one in Montana. If the labor unions don't unite forces with the third party, the farmers' alliance will, and there will be a competition. The third party will eventually sweep the country. I was greatly pleased with the convention and consider myself richly repaid for my time and money."

"Who will be your nominee for president?"

"I don't know. That was not mentioned in the convention. There was some talk around about Judge Gresham, but no action was taken and no choice expressed. Jerry Simpson has no presidential aspirations."

PROFESSOR COLLIER'S TRIAL.

Hearing Indefinitely Postponed—Will be a Trial by Jury.

BUTTE, March 5.—The case of the state against Prof. W. H. Collier, which was to have come up before Justice Herbert at Walkerville at 1 o'clock this afternoon on a change of venue from Judge McMurry's court, was continued by mutual agreement of the attorneys at the last moment. No time was set for the trial in the written agreement filed with the justice. The case will probably be tried before many days, however, as both parties are almost ready for the contest. In the agreement filed the state is required to give the defense reasonable notice of the time selected for holding the trial. The case has attracted widespread attention both from the prominence of the parties interested and the somewhat sensational features connected with it. At the time of the trouble an account of it was published in the STANDARD. A jury has been empaneled and is in readiness to try the case. The jury is said to be an exceptionally good one and is composed entirely of married men who have children attending school. If a just verdict cannot be secured with these men, it will be hard to get one.

Finerty's Lecture Tour.

BUTTE, March 5.—John F. Finerty will leave for Helena tomorrow morning where he will lecture Monday evening on "Robert Emmet." This will also be his subject in Butte on the 17th. It is understood that the admirers of Mr. Finerty are making preparations to give him a reception in each town. He will be accompanied on his trip by John Maguire.

Greeted by Great Falls Folk.

BUTTE, March 5.—The "Mikado" special for Great Falls left the Montana Central depot at 8 o'clock this morning with two passenger coaches, a baggage car, 125 happy people and lots of provision. A dispatch announces their arrival at Great Falls at 2 o'clock this afternoon and were met at the depot by a procession, brass band, cheerers, streamers and enthusiasm. There was an ovation at the opera house this evening.

Now in Butte.

BUTTE, March 5.—Mrs. Effland of Chicago, owner of five-eighths interest in the Germania, Elba, Humboldt and Apex mines, is in the city visiting old friends. Her father was killed in an explosion here six years ago. Mrs. Effland revolved the power of attorney to Mr. Freudenstein, owner of the balance of the stock of the mines.

BUTTE AT GREAT FALLS.

A Rousing Reception Tendered the Members of the "Mikado" Company.

GREAT FALLS, March 5.—A special train from Butte bearing the "Mikado" company and invited guests arrived at Great Falls about 2:35 this afternoon and was welcomed at the depot by large and enthusiastic crowds of citizens, who with great hospitality gathered to meet them. The train consisted of two parlor cars and a baggage car. The cars bore a banner inscribed "Butte Amateur Opera Company, Great Falls, March 5." As soon as the train reached the depot the crowd gave three hearty cheers for Butte and the band struck in with music, while the company with invited guests, under the direction of a committee, walked up to the parlors of the Rainbow club, where an informal reception took place. Three of the company, Messrs. Cooley, McDonald and F. P. Atkinson, went down as far as Cascade to meet the train, and returned with the visitors. After the reception the visitors took a ride on the electric cars to the great dam and witnessed the first ore from Butte being worked. A train of three cars, decorated with banners, was placed at the disposal of the visitors by the street car company. The cars were decorated with banners, bearing inscriptions of welcome, such as "You Dig the Ore, We Do the Rest," "Three Little Maids From Butte." Many of the business places were decorated with flags and banners and several streamers were stretched across the streets. On their return they were escorted to their hotels by the committee to obtain the needed rest before the opening of the performance.

The presentation of the "Mikado" tonight was greeted by a house packed with the best people of Great Falls, and all were highly pleased with the performance, and each act was roundly applauded.

AFTER THE TRUSTS.

United States Agents on the Trail of Monopolies.

CHICAGO, March 5.—Charles M. Horton, representative of the department of justice, who swore out warrants for the arrest of President Greenhut and other whiskey trust officials last week, has been investigating the methods of the cordage trust in this city for several days. Last night Horton left for Minneapolis, where he will confer with the United States district attorney and secure additional evidence to prove the combination controls the cordage market. Horton's investigations have been conducted in a secret manner, but partial facts leaked out this morning. The facts which Horton secures will probably be laid before the federal grand jury at Boston, New York or Philadelphia.

Its First Decision.

SANTA FE, N. M., March 5.—The court of private land claims has handed down its first decision. It was in case of a demurrer filed by United States Attorney Reynolds against Colonel Grant in Roanoke county. The court sustained two points for the United States but overruled eight points and allowed the petition to be amended. Six land grant cases have so far been filed and about 150 are in course of preparation.

Shot by Moonshiners.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 5.—Charles Stuart, deputy United States marshal, and his brother, John Stuart, were fatally wounded yesterday by moonshiners in Polk county. Stuart and his two brothers had arrested a man named Michael near the North Carolina line for illicit distilling. On their way to Ducktown they were halted by a crowd of moonshiners, who opened fire and rescued the prisoner. Joseph Stuart escaped unhurt.

A Profane Commander.

RICHMOND, March 5.—Today in the naval court sitting for the hearing of the charges against Commander Graham of the Monitor fleet, ex-Skipper James D. Prentiss testified that Graham, in speaking of Admiral Porter, said: "Yes, he's dead and gone to hell. I hope, where he should have been 25 years ago." He also testified that Graham used improper language on other occasions.

Smugglers Arrested.

MAKINE CITY, Mich., March 5.—George F. Logan and Frank May of Sombra, Ont., were arrested here today while smuggling clothing across the river. It is said they have been doing this a long time and have worked up a large trade among business men. Their arrests, and the possibility that 20 or 30 prominent citizens may be implicated, caused much excitement.

Whiskey Trust Indictments.

BOSTON, March 5.—It is understood that a sensational attack will be made in the federal court Monday in the matter of the indictments against the whiskey trust, should an attempt be made to show that the grand jury now in session is an illegal body and all its work will go for nothing. The alleged illegality is based on a technicality in regard to the drawing of jurors.

Stuffed With Paper.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, March 5.—Wells Fargo's express agent, Maize, of this city was discharged today by Division Superintendent DeWitt of Cleveland for irregularity in sending a package of $50 to headquarters in San Francisco Feb. 11. The package was stuffed with paper, but contained no money when it arrived.

Population of Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The total population of Brooklyn, according to census returns, so far as handled in with the exception of one district, is 953,588. The missing district will probably bring it up to 955,000. The federal census for 1880 was 806,342, and the police census, four months later, 853,914.

Want Heavy Damages.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 5.—J. W. Day & Co., lumbermen, and about 50 fire insurance companies, have brought suit against the H. C. Akeley Lumber company to recover $267,136 as damages for the big lumber fire of May last. The complainants allege the fire was caused by sparks from the refuse burner of the Akeley mill.

Will Obey the Order.

KANSAS CITY, March 5.—It has been definitely decided by the Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific and Santa Fe that the Kansas railroad commissioners order of Jan. 6, regarding fifth class tariff, shall go into effect as soon as legal notice can be given. The Rock Island still holds out.

Guatemalan Affairs.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The Guatemalan consul general here has received the following: "The national assembly has declared Gen. Reina Barrios elected constitutional president of the republic. Peace and tranquility reign."

MURDER IN IDAHO.

Samuel J. Pritchard Killed by William Fleming at Oreana.

SILVER CITY, Idaho, via Boise, March 5.—Samuel J. Pritchard, one of the most prominent citizens of this county, and a deputy United States marshal, was killed today at Oreana by William Fleming, a constable at that place. This news has just been received without any particulars. It has created intense excitement here. Pritchard was the most earnest supporter of Senator Dubois in Owyhee county. It is thought the quarrel may have occurred while celebrating Dubois' victory.

Later—it is learned that Pritchard had a dispute with a man and slapped his face. The latter swore out a warrant for Pritchard's arrest and the papers were placed in Fleming's hands for service. He found Pritchard in a store and told him to throw up his hands. Pritchard said he would not. The constable then fired three times instantly killing Pritchard, who was unarmed. The latter leaves a wife and one child. Pritchard was a quiet man of about 40 years of age and was extremely popular. Public sentiment against Constable Fleming is very bitter.

In Police Court.

BUTTE, March 5.—Albert Tobias, or Lewis, the young man tried before Judge McMurry, charged with a forgery on Frank Boncher, was acquitted today. He was immediately arrested, however, for vagrancy and was fined $10 and costs. Stanley Horton, for carrying concealed weapons, was dismissed; J. F. Lennon, for disturbance, paid $5; S. Karasaka, for disturbance, paid $5. Two cases were against Theodore Bracken, one for malicious assault and one for assault. He pleaded guilty and was fined $5 on the first charge and $10 on the second. He will serve 23 days in jail.

A Receiver Appointed.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 5.—General Murray of this city has been appointed receiver of the California Savings bank. This step was necessitated by the failure of the California National bank in order, if possible, to secure depositors of the savings bank of which President Collins, who suicided, was vice president and an active director.

He Got the Cash.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 5.—When the New York-bound train reached Gilford tonight a man ran from a car to the ticket office, pulled a revolver and said to the agent: "Out with every cent, or down you go." ### The Unexpected Happened.

From the Jeweler's Weekly. "When I was a young man," said Bodkins, "I was employed in a large house in the city, and fell in love with a young woman, to whom I became engaged. About two months before we were to be married I was sent to Australia on important business, occasioned by the death of one of the firm in that country. I took an affectionate leave of my intended, and promised to write to her often.

"I was detained longer than I expected, but just before I sailed for home I bought a valuable ring, intending it as a present for my sweetheart.

"As I was nearing the shore and reading the paper which the pilot had brought on board, I saw an announcement of her marriage with another man. I knew very well, which so enraged me that I threw the ring overboard.

"A few days afterwards, as I was dining, fish was served, and in eating a portion I bit into something hard, and what do you suppose it was?"

"The diamond ring!" exclaimed several.

"No," said Bodkins; "it was a fish-bone."

Luck in the Horseshoe.

From the Washington Star. "Do you remember the talk about soigns and superstitions the other even," Mrs. Flannagan?"

"Oh do. Have you tried the horseshoe yet?"

The brain of the tortoise was once supposed to contain a wonderful stone, which was efficacious in extinguishing fire, and when placed under the tongue would produce prophetic inspiration. Another stone possessing the latter property was found to be in the eye of the beryna.

The Salton sea has been almost dropped out of sight lately, but it is still there, and from appearance is beginning to assume larger proportions again. From some of the higher hills north of Banning it can be seen distinctly every morning at sunrise.

The bark of the Australian mimosa (or "magnosa" tree) is now employed as "tannin" in France and also in England, especially for ludes intended to make "Morocco" leather. It gives the skin a slightly reddish tint, which is a novelty.

COPPER MINING.

A Prehistoric Race Said to Have Been in the Business.

Corr of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The first mining engineer who set foot in the Lake Superior region found that somebody had preceded him. He saw the shafts and the tunnels. He picked up the pieces of copper metal. Under many feet of debris he unearthed the tools of those who had been there, and these tools were of stone. Who were the original copper miners on the American continent? "A prehistoric race," says Dr. Thomas Eggleston of Columbia college. This scientist has made a study of the ancient copper mines in the United States. He has gathered up not only the tools used in mining, but the household utensils, the remnants of the former homes and anything which might give the slightest indication of what manner of people these original American copper miners were. He has gone into the ancient workings and measured the stroke of the implements. In this way he has arrived at conclusions in regard to the stature and strength of these prehistoric miners. They were a smaller race of men than the Americans of to-day, Dr. Eggleston says. Lake Superior was not the only region where the copper mining was carried on many centuries ago. The same kind of men mined in the mountains of North Carolina. The same tools, the same household articles, the same method of mining and living, the same kind of strokes with the stone implements are found in North Carolina workings that have been discovered in the Lake Superior country.

"I have concluded," Dr. Eggleston said, "that the men who mined copper in the Lake Superior region migrated when cold weather came on to North Carolina, and carried on their work there until it became warm again, when they went back to the Lake Superior mines. I believe they mined at Lake Superior until about September and then moved South."

"Whom do you think they were, doctor?"

"The scientist said 'no' decidedly. 'When I was in Alaska,' he continued, 'I found the natives of the Aleutian islands setting out in their boats to go a distance of 200 miles. That was no unusual thing for them. I know that these natives were said to resemble the Japanese somewhat, but when I studied them I saw that the characteristics were much closer than I had been led to reading to suppose. Forty-eight hours after leaving these people at sea in their boats I came upon the Japanese at sea in their boats.'"

"You conclude that the Japanese came to this country centuries ago by way of Alaska and worked the Lake Superior copper mines?"

"No; I don't offer it as a conclusion. The facts I have mentioned are merely suggested. We know that the Japanese are metal workers are in advance of us in some respects. Only those who have visited Japan know how far this is true. We never see in the Japanese work exhibited in this country for sale what is really their good work. They have a way in their country of expressing the best of their work in a piece of work by saying it will do for export. When I was over there I picked up in a heap of work thrown aside as rejected something that had been made by boys under 10 years of age. It was silver inlaid in other metal. 'The didn't want to let me have it because they thought it wasn't good enough to sell. I have since shown the condemned article along with a fine specimen of approved Japanese workmanship. I am sorry to say that many Americans consider the condemned article the best.'"

"Did these prehistoric miners get out other metals—gold and silver—as well as copper?"

"No, they only mined copper. I believe there were five prehistoric races on this continent. Two of them were highly civilized. The others were barbarous or semi-barbarous."

"Were they here together, or did one follow the other?"

"I can't say as to that. Probably the two civilized races were at different times. Preceding the Indians found here when our people came to this country, there was a barbarous or semi-barbarous race, and just before that, perhaps 500 years before the country was discovered by Columbus, there was the civilized race which mined the copper. I have seen all over the Western plains, and I believe they were once wooded and well watered. A civilized people lived there and carried the art of irrigation to a high degree of success. You can find the location of lakes and reservoirs, where great quantities of water were stored by means of dams and distributed over large tracts of country. You can see where there were springs fed by underground courses from these artificial lakes and reservoirs. That whole country was altogether different from what it is now. It was reclaimed once and can be again, every foot of it. In the Snake River valley in Idaho there are 10,000,000 acres for which the water is already provided. In many places the water must be stored, but the natural reservoir sites are ready, and by a little work can be turned to account as they were by the race which once utilized them. I have watered my horse many a time from the relics of this system of irrigation which extended all over the West."

Killed Himself.

NEW YORK, March 5.—While temporarily insane today Polham W. Shipman, son of ex-Judge Shipman, a well-known attorney here, shot himself.
